

Solution To Crisis In Reach

Leftists In Fight Against Settlement

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Brazil seemed within reach Saturday of a peaceful solution for a political crisis that pushed the nation to the brink of civil war. But strong leftist forces struggled to snatch it out of reach.

The Senate scheduled a vote on a constitutional amendment that would clear the way for an interim parliamentary system. The amendment is aimed at appeasing strong opposition to the succession of leftist vice president Joao Goulart to the presidency Janio Quadros resigned eight days ago.

The Chamber of Deputies earlier gave a thumping 233-55 approval to the measure, which would set Goulart as a figurehead president, with a prime minister operating the government.

If the Senate agrees, if Goulart agrees and if the three top military service chiefs agree, it appeared peace might return. Under the amendment, Goulart would be inaugurated Monday.

The chamber went into session Friday night after a deputy returned from a flying trip to Montevideo for back-stage talks with Goulart, the former cowboy from the southern cattle state of Rio Grande do Sul. He is opposed by the nation's military chieftains, who insist he is too far to the left.

The deputy said Goulart agreed to the parliamentary system but with some changes.

There were signs of a split among Goulart's supporters. Some continued to clamor for him to reject the parliamentary system and step into the presidency with full powers.

Gov. Leonel Brizola of Rio Grande do Sul, Goulart's brother-in-law, claimed the deputy, Tancredo de Neves, failed to get "Goulart's true thinking." Brizola said the amendment's passage "comes as a surprise." In a radio broadcast he urged Congress to reject it.

Leslie Chabay To Appear Here With Symphony

The Sedalia Symphony Society's artist committee has announced that Leslie Chabay, tenor, will appear with the symphony orchestra Oct. 16 for the opening performance of the 1961-62 concert season.

Chabay is a native of Hungary and is now artist in residence at Washington University. Sedalians became acquainted with his talent when he appeared with the orchestra before a large and responsive crowd last March.

The artist committee has also secured Liord's Puppets International for the Jan. 30 performance. This group is proudly presented as a show for the entire family.

Final concert will be April 24, when the famous Gilbert and Sullivan Music Hall will appear.

Conductor Abe Rosenthal will hold first rehearsal for the orchestra Sept. 11 at 7:30 p.m. at Smith-Cotton auditorium. Orchestra members are urged to attend this rehearsal.

On the artist committee are Harry W. Walsh, chairman, Miss Doris M. Stott, Mrs. J. M. Cunningham, Abe Rosenthal and Mrs. Al Miles.

Leaders Still in Flight

Anti-Government Members Arrested; Papers Are Seized

PARIS (AP)—French police said Saturday they have seized important documents from one section of the widely scattered antigovernment movement in France and arrested 20 of its members. The leaders are still in flight, however.

Acts of violence were blamed on the plotters, including a murder with a plastic bomb.

A spokesman at the Interior Ministry said the seized documents confirmed existence of a "provisional government for a French Algeria" and clearly identified Joseph Ortiz as one of its leaders. Ortiz is under a death sentence for his part in the 1960 Algerian barricades uprising and is believed to have been living in exile on the Spanish island of Majorca since the insurgent movement collapsed.

Police said that the right-wing network was responsible for the recent plastic bomb attacks in France. The captured documents indicated Ortiz sent instructions for the attacks through an elaborate courier network.

Most of the arrests, which took place during the past few days but were kept secret, were in southwestern France.

Among the attacks that police attribute to the movement were the plastic explosion which killed Camille Blanc, mayor of Evian, a few days before the opening of peace talks with the Algerian rebels last May, and an explosion and fire in the National Assembly in Paris last spring. Many blasts of the plastic, a sticky type explosive, have been blamed on rightists.

The police identified Ortiz, Gen. Jacques Faure and Dr. Bernard Lefevre as other members of the nebulous "provisional government of French Algeria."

Gen. Faure is being held in Santa prison awaiting trial for a part in the generals' revolt in April. Faure was not in Algiers at the time, but long has been identified with right-wing factions in Algeria. Dr. Lefevre, known principally as a political theoretician, was expelled from Algeria for his rightist activities. His whereabouts are unknown.

Plans for the three-day Cole Camp Fair are progressing nicely according to Robert Gerken, fair secretary. Activities will get underway Thursday morning with a full schedule of events set throughout Saturday.

Work has begun on readying the buildings which will house the various exhibits. Due to the ideal growing weather, a high quality and quantity of exhibits in agriculture, floriculture, vocational agriculture, and home economics is expected.

Band concerts will be conducted at 9:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. daily, and also at 1:30 p.m. Thursday and 1 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Music will be furnished by the Cole Camp Municipal Band and the Benton County R-I (Cole Camp) School Band.

Work on the parade floats is continuing, with groups working late into the night to complete their entries. Early last week 11 floats had already been entered. One thousand dollars in prize money will be awarded the winners. Winners will be judged Friday evening with the grand prize being awarded Saturday night. All floats will be shown each evening at 7:5, at 10 a.m. Thursday and 10:30 a.m. Friday.

Special entertainment at this year's festival will be the Spurgeon Show featuring the High Gliding Horse Act and Edith and her trio of dogs. Rope spinning, long and short whip acts and other specialties will also be presented. Daily performances will be given.

At p.m. Saturday Miss Ruth Bockelman, Sedalia, and the Big Time Little Beats will present a musical program followed by Noland Tucker and His Melodians.

Other attractions are the Holiday Amusement Company's rides and shows on the midway and the American Legion sponsored dances at the Legion Hall on Friday and Saturday nights.

Police Plan a Crackdown On School Safety Hazards

The first sessions of the Sedalia public schools were held Friday morning, but from all indications the parents of pupils attending these first sessions are not aware of the hazards involved, according to local police.

Chief Ralph Hamlin said he was working Friday morning near a school where dozens of cars drove up, parked in the middle of the block and let their children out. Then the children weaved their way through the rest of the cars to the sidewalk.

Thoughtless practices like these cause police officers and others primarily concerned with the safety of children to have nightmares, officials say, because they are unnecessary.

In view of what he saw Friday, Hamlin said the local police force for the next two weeks will conduct an all-out drive against speeders in and near school zones, and against parents who disregard the safety of their children for the few moments saved by letting their children out of the car in the middle of the block.

Police officers will be stationed at all intersections in or near school zones at all times when the children are out of the buildings. They will be on duty before the children arrive and will go off duty after the last child has left the school.

The police radar car has been checked and adjusted by radar experts in Kansas City, and should be back in Sedalia by Tuesday, when school resumes on a full schedule. The car will be used on a full-time basis to check speeders. Last year several motorists were arrested and fined for traveling only two or three miles per hour over the posted limits. The same policy will be followed this year, Hamlin said.

Police will work this year, as in the past, with school officials, parent-teacher groups and other organizations to preserve the city's record of no children injured in traffic while at school, going to school or going home from school.

Police have urged all parents, in letting their children out of the car, to stop at the intersection or crosswalk where they will be under the protection of the officer on duty.

Police further urged motorists to watch out for children and to maintain the posted speed limits, in the interest of child safety.

Local Radio Station To Join ABC

Sedalia is scheduled to start receiving network radio service on a local basis Sept. 11 — a week from tomorrow. KSIS will become affiliated with the American Broadcasting Company radio network on that date.

The 1000 watt station's program schedule will undergo some change, it was reported, to accommodate such ABC features as Don McNeill's "Breakfast Club" and the net's newest program "Flair." The week-day schedule will include the addition of eight ABC newscasts daily. Newsmen to be heard on the net will include John Cameron Swayze.

James C. Hagerty, a former White House news secretary, is the head of the ABC news department.

"Names" that have been on "Flair" include Al Capp, Harry Golden, Margaret Truman, Jonathan Winters, and subjects will range from outer space . . . Americana . . . baby care . . . bowling . . . books to Hollywood.

The direct line service will provide "live" coverage for such special events as the launching of astronauts from Cape Canaveral, according to KSIS general manager Carl W. Yates, Jr.

Yates said the addition of the network would not affect the status of personnel at the station, which began broadcasting here in February of 1954.

Nehru Tells Conference

At Brink of War Due to Testing

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru shook the conference of nonaligned nations Saturday with a demand that they forget colonialism for a while and concentrate on saving the world from drifting into disaster.

The veteran Indian leader declared the Soviet decision to resume nuclear testing, opening the way for testing also by other countries, "brings us to the brink of war."

"Fear creeps into my mind that we might not be able to get out of the rut of talking and of making resolutions, that we will be going home and allowing the world to drift into disaster," Nehru said.

Appealing for moral pressure to break the U.S.-Soviet deadlock over Berlin, he said he considered the situation worse than at any time since World War II.

"I would have suggested a U.N. General Assembly meeting on the question of war and peace if the assembly were not to meet later this month," Nehru told the 24-nation gathering.

"The danger of war comes nearer and nearer. By the recent decision of the Soviet government to start nuclear tests our situation today is the most dangerous since World War II ended, and we must do something, everything we can, to help it. Nothing is more important than this situation of war and peace today. Everything else, no matter how vital, is secondary," he said.

His words fell on the ears of many delegates whose primary interest at the conference had been the waging of an anticommunist campaign, leaving such problems as Berlin and nuclear testing for secondary consideration.

Wage Floor Raise Into Effect Mon.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Organized labor chalked up a long cherished goal on this Labor Day weekend—a boost in the amount and scope of the federal minimum wage.

Legislation adopted by Congress earlier this year goes into effect Monday raising the wage floor for 24 million workers already covered by the law from $1. to $1.15 an hour, and fixing a $1 minimum for 3.6 million workers previously exempt.

For regularly covered workers the required minimum pay level will go to $1.25 an hour in 1963. For the newly-covered group it will go to $1.15 in 1964 and to $1.25 in 1965.

President Kennedy's Labor Day message said the minimum wage changes should be a source of satisfaction to the nation, along with housing, social security, area redevelopment and other economic aid measures recently adopted by Congress.

Kennedy said that again on Labor Day there is a clear distinction between opposing ways of life in the modern world—between freedom and tyranny.

"We look upon man's toil as an expression of individual personality and will—not a commodity to be exploited for the benefit of a state or ruling party," The President said. "Tyranny deprives a man of the freedom and joy of his work."

Land Purchases Nearly Completed In the Area

The government through the Corps of Engineers will soon advertise for bids on the $75 million Minuteman intercontinental missile project in this area. Whiteman AFB information officials said Friday.

Maj. William R. Cook, information officer at Whiteman, said the awarding of bids will occur at a suitable place in Kansas City as some 2,000 persons are expected to participate.

Cook also disclosed the Air Force has almost completed the buying of land for a string of the missile launching sites to be deployed along an arc extending from Boonville, southwest to El Dorado Springs.

NEWS MEN BRIEFED
The major told 35 newsmen present at a briefing conference for area news media that he could not disclose the number of sites or their exact locations. Air Force officials have asked cooperation of newsmen in not publishing locations of missile pads, although the information may be known to them.

The missile arc will bulge toward the northwest with Whiteman, the control base, approximately at the midpoint of the arc.

WORK FORCE OF 2,000
Cook said the construction employment may be above the previously announced 2,000 persons. About 1,200 military personnel will maintain the sites after construction.

The military personnel will comprise a missile wing to be stationed at the base, and several missile flights stationed at launch sites along the arc. Each flight will control several missile sites.

PORTABLE HOUSING
Construction personnel will be housed in three villages of portable housing units. There will be 200 family units in each of two villages and 400 units in the other. There also will be bachelor quarters. A study of possible locations for these villages has been made, and choices will be announced Wednesday, Cook said.

Air Force officials cautioned local and area contracting firms against anticipating a boom in building to house construction workers and personnel manning (Please turn to page 4, column 4)

Versailles Woman Dies After Being Shot by Husband

VERSAILLES, Mo. (AP)—Mrs. Sally Patricia Johnson, 36, died in a Columbia, Mo., hospital Saturday about four hours after she was shot by her husband, E. H. Johnson, 61, at their home, Sheriff J. T. Hull said.

Johnson, a real estate dealer in the Ivy Bend subdivision on the Lake of the Ozarks, was charged with first degree murder and released under $10,000 bond, Hull said.

The Johnsons were married last December.

Saturday night the sheriff said it appeared that Johnson's story of shooting in self-defense appeared to be correct.

Hull said Johnson told this story:

Mrs. Johnson returned to their home in the Ivy Bend area about 1 a.m. after drinking heavily Friday afternoon and evening. She threatened him and finally grabbed a .410 shotgun from a closet. She was trying to cock the weapon when he took a .380 pistol from a drawer and shot her in the head.

"Our investigation shows that it happened exactly the way he told us," the sheriff said.

Titov Adds To Crescendo Of Threats

Says Reds Prepared To Crush Those Who Try to Stop Treaty

BERLIN (AP)—The Soviet Union's smiling astronaut, Maj. Gherman S. Titov, added his voice Saturday to the crescendo of threats from Communist capitals in support of the division of Berlin.

Standing beside East Germany's No. 1 communist, Walter Ulbricht, at a mass demonstration in East Berlin, the visiting spaceman said the Soviet Union was prepared to "crush and destroy once and for all" any "imperialists" who try to stop a German peace treaty.

At about the same time, in Moscow, the Kremlin handed new Soviet notes to the United States, Britain and France. They replied to strong Western warnings that the Soviet Union not meddle with the Allied air corridors to West Berlin.

First reports were that the Soviets once more charged that the corridors were being used to transport West German espionage agents. But informants said they refrained from threatening Allied use of the airlines.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer later issued a rosy forecast, saying he was convinced everything will work out in the long run.

"Through negotiations we must and will come to a solution of the German and Berlin problems that is acceptable for all sides, East and West, as well as for the German people," Adenauer said in a nationwide telecast.

Local Residents At Dedication Ceremony

About 100 area residents attended the water works dedication ceremonies Friday night at Ionia. The system, placed in operation nearly a year ago is one of the few in the nation in operation in a town the size of Ionia.

Speakers of the program included former State Senator A. L. McCawley, Jefferson City, and Ted Horseman, engineer in charge of the construction.

Ice cream, cake and pie were served prior to the ceremonies.

Ann Landers Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Recently I received an invitation to a bridal shower. I was told not to bring a gift, but the price of the luncheon was $15. This included the meal in a hotel and the invitation said my name would appear on the card which would be attached to the lovely gift — purchased by a committee. The reason for this unusual arrangement, according to the committee: "The bride would rather have one beautiful gift than twenty-five pieces of junk."

I told a friend who was also invited that I thought the whole thing was in pretty poor taste. She said I was "a small town hick" and that this is the way society people do it. Is this true? — FLABBERGASTED

Dear Flabber: This sounds like a donor luncheon, not a bridal shower. Such an invitation is an insult and anyone who would accept it must be desperately hard up for a party.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 24-year-old daughter has had many romances but nothing serious—until now. She brought the young man home to dinner last night and we were appalled.

We offered him a glass of sherry and he snorted "What is this — a Sunday School picnic? I drink bourbon." When dinner was announced he took the bottle along to the table.

He started his salad before grace was said and continued to eat during the blessing. He speared a chop off the platter with his own fork and when our daughter reached for the last roll he said "That's got my name on it," and took it out of her hand.

My husband and I were mortified and we told her of our feelings after he left. She claims manners are unimportant and that his fine mind and good character count for everything. Any comment? — APPALLED

Dear Appalled: More is involved here than bad manners. The young man is selfish, inconsiderate and immature. I hope your daughter recognizes (before it's too late that "a fine mind" counts for little alongside crippling, destructive flaws of character.

Dear Ann Landers: How right you were when you told the woman who was in love with her married boss to change jobs and not waste her precious time waiting for him to "free himself." You so wisely added, "I he WERE free, he'd probably marry

Customers Can Sip a Drink While Waiting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed a bill Thursday that would permit stand-up drinking at Washington bars. But not by serious stand-up drinkers, just by prospective sit-down eaters.

For years, hard-liquor drinks have been served at only tables in Capital eating places. Bars are reserved for beer-and wine trade and even these customers have to be seated.

The bill would allow customers to down a quick one in a vertical position—but only if the bar is screened from the restaurant's eating area. And the stand-up tippler would not be able to get a good foothold for any serious drinking. Because, a sponsor explained: "This bill permits service without prior seating only to waiting customers who are to be seated within a short period of time."

The measure still must be acted on by the Senate.

Radioactive Fallout At Safe Level

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —As the Soviet Union stands poised to resume nuclear testing, the skies are largely clear of radioactive fallout.

But the largest proportion of the fallout's most feared component, radioactive strontium, rests on the earth, still posing a potential hazard to health.

Atomic authorities have the strontium under constant surveillance and report that, so far, there is no evidence that humans have absorbed dangerous quantities.

Here's the present radioactive fallout situation, based on estimates given a reporter by Atomic Energy Commission experts:

Of the 10,000 pounds of radioactive debris loosed in the atmosphere between 1945 and late 1958 more than 95 per cent has by now either been deposited on the earth or decayed while still aloft or on the ground.

Only a relatively small proportion of the material still on the ground is radioactive.

The 10,000 pounds included debris from the two atomic bombs the United States dropped on Japan in 1945 and material loosed in nuclear tests by the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France.

Experts figure that bombs having explosive power equivalent to about 170 million tons of TNT had been exploded by the end of 1958. At that time the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain announced they were suspending the tests while efforts were made to work out a test ban agreement.

France conducted nuclear tests in the Sahara Desert last year, but the AEC estimates that they contributed only about 0.1 or 0.2 per cent of the total fallout of long-lived fission products.

The debris at any one time in the atmosphere included some 235 different types of fission products. Only two of them, long-living radioactive strontium-90 and cesium-137, are considered potential hazards to health.

Radioactive strontium has been termed the worst potential hazard because if enough of it gets into the human body, it could cause bone cancer or leukemia.

Speed Too Much For Norwegian Motorship Beta

MANDAL, Norway (AP) — Fifteen minutes after the new Norwegian motorship Beta set out on her maiden voyage Thursday, Skipper Ivar Jahnsen called for full speed to show a Danish colleague how easily the 460-ton vessel handled.

Full speed and a sharp turn were too much for the Beta, though. In 30 seconds she heeled far over, throwing the 15 Norwegians and 12 Danes aboard into the sea and stopping the ship's engines.

Two German torpedo boats and other small boats cruising in the sunny fjord rescued the Beta's personnel. The ship, still listing

AP Planning Fast Service On Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Complete automation of stock market tabulation to permit greater speed, accuracy and efficiency is planned by The Associated Press.

In place of the present manual operations, the job of collecting and updating quotations from the nation's major financial centers will be done by an electronic computer, tentatively scheduled for installation by December, 1962.

"The computer will operate with more versatility and accuracy than is possible under even the highest standards of present manual operations," said Frank J. Starzel, AP general manager.

"Tabulations of stock changes will be performed as required in microseconds, almost simultaneously with punching tape for transmission. Trading volume many times greater than that of the heaviest days yet experienced can be handled with ease."

The computer was jointly developed by The Associated Press and International Business Machines Corporation.

The computer is the latest step by The Associated Press to apply the newest technological developments to the compilation and transmission of stock tables in a time of expanded newspaper coverage and rising reader interest.

It will be able to "read" information on trading activity in the various exchanges at a 10,000 word a minute pace and permit delivery of end-of-day tables to newspapers almost simultaneously with the close of the ticker.

The development was applauded by Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange and by Edward T. McCormick, president of the American Exchange. The markets they oversee are the nation's largest.

Funston said it was an impressive step toward a "more fully informed investment public," now estimated to include 15 million persons.

The Associated Press now serves 97 per cent of the daily newspapers, which, according to New York Stock Exchange surveys, publish complete "big board" tables.

Say Shelter Costs Should Be Deducted

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A committee of the American Academy of General Practice today urged legislation to allow homeowners to deduct from adjusted gross income the cost of constructing atomic fallout shelters.

The medical association's public policy committee, meeting here, said such tax deductions would be "logical extension of the President's preparedness program."

Tigers Put on Show For Parents Monday

'Meet Team Nite' Held For Parents

Combine Practice With Preview; Will Display Equipment

The Smith-Cotton Tigers are staging something this season that should be appreciated by the parents of these boys who are out for football this season. It is "Meet the Team Night" to be held Monday night at the Jennie Jaynes Stadium starting about 7 o'clock.

Coach Bob Edmundson in discussing the team and a night practice decided to combine a practice session and at the same time arrange for the parents and public to have a "preview." Coach Edmundson is also arranging for a complete display of equipment each player wears. This is done so the parents can see for themselves just how the school is endeavoring to give the boys the best protection in football equipment.

The gridiron lights will be on and a full practice session will be held, giving the public an opportunity to see the material the Tigers have for a team this year. So far the coaching staff is fairly well pleased with the practices the team has held. The players are not all seasoned and experienced, but they have been working hard developing. The Tigers have more depth this season, and should provide Smith-Cotton with a good club in the Central Missouri Conference.

It isn't going to be an easy year either. Although there are 15 lettermen back, material which is supplementing positions vacated by more experienced boys is on the "green" side, but at the same time boys who are willing and ready to learn.

The first test comes next Friday night when the Tigers are host to the visiting Owls from the Marshall high school. Marshall is still smarting from the 34-13 defeat suffered at the hands of the Tigers last season and they will be back to avenge the loss. Marshall did not suffer the loss in experienced players like Smith-Cotton, according to the early reports.

In the Central Missouri Conference, the predictions are that it will be the Kewpines from Columbia and the Jays from Jefferson City, the other teams will have to contend with this year. They are strong, almost equally as strong as 1960.

These past three weeks have not been easy ones for the Tigers as for the first week there were two practices each day and the past week they have been held in mid-afternoon—not the coolest part of the day.

"I know it has been tough on the boys," Edmundson said, "but I can't help but recall the game against Marshall, when the team began to get down because of the extreme hot weather, and at night too. I firmly believe these day-time workouts have been helpful to the boys in getting them in condition for the coming season."

"Not a whimper has come from them about these hot practice sessions, and most of the boys are showing good results from them. They are willing and are trying, and that's all a coach can ask. Game time will be the real answer," Edmundson remarked.

So Monday night it's "Meet the Team Night" and everybody is invited out to see the boys in practice action.

The American Motorcycle Association has sanctioned a motorcycle "hill climb" to be held at Sedalia, Sept. 10, starting time to be 1 p.m.

Sponsor of this climb will be The Iron Horsemen Motorcycle Club of Sedalia. At the last climb, many spectators arrived late and the climb had to be held up, but because of the large field of riders, this event will start at the advertised time.

Tebbetts Is Named Manager

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves fired Manager Charlie Dressen and named Birdie Tebbetts, executive vice president, his successor Saturday for the remainder of the year and the 1962 and 1963 seasons.

Dressen was notified that his contract would not be renewed in a meeting with John McHale, vice president and general manager, after the Braves' 4-0 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

In a quick moving series of news conferences, McHale said Dressen was told of the firing now "to insure him sufficient time in the event other major league managing jobs become available."

Tebbetts, who left a job as Cincinnati manager to become executive vice president at Milwaukee three years ago, then met with McHale and newsmen at another conference.

In stepping down from his front office role, Tebbetts said that he "found myself as a baseball man getting farther and farther away from the things I love most."

"I just wasn't happy being so far away from baseball," Tebbetts said. "John McHale has been doing a very fine job. It looked like two fellows doing the same job and only enough work for one."

McHale said that Birdie made himself available as a field manager at a meeting with owner Lou Perini "a couple of weeks ago."

"Mr. Perini has been trying to hire Birdie since 1946," McHale said. "Charlie Dressen did a pretty good job for us the last two years but when Birdie became available we wanted him. He might not be available later on."

Sports Scraps

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

IT was interesting to note the finish of the great Hambletonian Harness race for three-year-old trotters last Wednesday, won by Harlan Dean in two world record times at the Du Quoin, Ill., State Fair. Interesting by the fact that Harlan Dean finished no better than fourth in the Hambletonian Preview at the Missouri State Fair a week ago, which was won by Caleb.

On the Missouri track the two heats run on Thursday, Aug. 24, were extremely slow due to the heavy and rough track. Caleb's first heat was 2:05 and Spectator won the second in 2:05 1/5. While down in southern Illinois, at Du Quoin, Harlan Dean ran the first heat in 1:58 2/5 and the second in 1:59, both breaking the former record of 1:59 3/5 set in 1960 at the Hambletonian. The previous record was a duplicate between Quick Song and Hoot Frost, the latter driven by Jimmy Arthur, who drove Harlan Dean to the championship this year.

In 1960 the big event was won by Blaze Hanover, driven by Joe O'Brien after four heats were necessary. Blaze Hanover won the first heat; seventh in second won by Quick Song driven by Sedalia's Frank Ervin; Hanover was third in the third heat won by Hoot Frost; then won the run-off, beating Quick Song second, Hoot Frost, third.

It is interesting to also note the record time was originally set at Sedalia at 1:59 3/5 by Uncle Sam driven by Lou Huber, Jr., in 1960, at the Preview.

The victory was quite a victory for Harlan Dean, who hadn't won but once in eight starts this season, and didn't even race in July.

THE Grand Circuit which returned to Missouri's fair track five years ago after a brief absence, is expected to keep Missouri on the circuit for at least another two years. With the Hambletonian, the richest stake in harness racing, being held at the Du Quoin (Ill.) State Fair, it isn't too likely the circuit would abandon Missouri.

There has been a movement on foot to move the Hambletonian from Du Quoin and this year the Hambletonian Society made its first move. There was a hurried meeting immediately following the running of the race last Wednesday by directors of the society—and a fight to keep it there resulted in the society granting a one-year extension.

The present contract for the race was due to end after the 1962 race meet, now it was extended to 1963.

Gene and Don Hayes, owners of the Du Quoin fair, had asked for another 5-year contract, but the society turned it down. The one-year extension was grabbed up however by the brothers when the Eastern bloc, seeking to move it to Vernon Downs, Vernon, N.Y., asked for a three-year contract to justify a $350,000 improvement on the racing plant, and could not consider the one-year proposal.

With the Hambletonian remaining in Du Quoin for at least the next two race seasons, as said before it is likely the Grand Circuit will give the nod for the same period to the Missouri State Fair.

Secretary of the Fair W. H. Ritzenthaler, stated that Don Thomason, commissioner of the Department of Agriculture, under whose division the fair is operated, anticipates going to the winter meeting of the Circuit in Columbus, Ohio, and asking the Circuit maintain Sedalia on its schedule.

There is always a track desiring to grab up any vacancy that comes in a Grand Circuit schedule, due to the fact the Grand Circuit is considered the cream of the horse racing sport. Certainly Missouri isn't going to make a vacancy as long as the officials of the Circuit are happy with the Missouri situation.

WITH football season opening in Sedalia next Friday night, the Jennie Jaynes Stadium will be the scene. Now a question comes to my mind. Why doesn't the School Board do a little painting and cleaning up so it will have a real inviting appearance to the out-of-town visitors?

The football gridiron is beautiful, nice and green—but not for long—especially now. Football games will take care of that in the next few weeks. Practice sessions have been operated on the large parking lot north of the stadium.

But the stadium needs some dress up. For instance, the name of Jennie Jaynes Stadium could stand a nice coat of paint, the large press box can use a good washing out, the windows washed inside and out and the cobwebs swept out.

I understand the School Board has the stadium rented for $3,000 a year, but is to take care of minor maintenance and upkeep. Major problems rest on the Board of Trustees of the Jennie Jaynes Foundation. I was reliably informed by a member of the Board of Trustees the School Board should see this minor clean-up job is taken care of.

Visiting newsmen, radio reporters and scouting coaches in recent years can easily make up an opinion of our city by cleanliness in the press box. I also happen to know some of our own school system employees have remarked on the situation the past two seasons.

Don't get me wrong—I'm not the only one who is complaining. It was brought to my attention just recently and I'm just passing along what others think.

Features 'Go-Karts'

Kartarama Thrillway Attracts Attention

The Kartarama Thrillway, south of Sedalia across from the Catholic Community Center on Anderson School road, is attracting the thrill seekers of the area. It is where these fast little "go-karts" and "scat-cats" are being raced on a novel race course.

During the past few weeks drivers of these low-slung four wheel carts have gradually been building up a local following. But now the fans are moving in from as far as Clinton, Independence, Kansas City, and other towns where these races are held weekly.

R. E. and brother R. L. Warren, Route 1, Sedalia, recently decided to build a real thrill course. This they did, one with five turns which includes an "S" curve, and black-topped. They operate it under the Go-Kart of America rules and regulations, the same as tracks at Concordia, Columbia, and other tracks in central and western Missouri, which recently furnished drivers who participated in the national races at Cape Girardeau.

Every Wednesday night they conduct two divisions, the Junior and Senior divisions. The Junior division includes all youngsters who drive like veterans, and the Seniors are of the adult group. The youngsters put on every bit as good a race as the adults, in fact they are little dare-devils,

Ultra Modern Sports Center

New Bowling Lanes Big Opening Set for Sept. 23

The new Hillcrest Bowling Lanes grand opening has tentatively been set for Saturday, Sept. 23, but the 16 lanes have been kept busy since the unofficial opening a week ago. Hillcrest, located just south of Sedalia on Highway 65, will provide more than just bowling for sport.

Under the Brunswick system, Hillcrest is being used as one of the model ultra modern sports centers and it now includes several Brunswick pool, snooker and billiard tables. These tables will be erected in a special room off the concourse, in the southeast corner of the building.

They are of the latest in design, attractive, and will be arranged so there will be three snooker tables, two pool tables and one billiard table.

Then for the bowlers there is an open locker room for men and women containing 136 lockers. These can be used for storing bowling equipment and balls. This is located in the northeast corner of the building just off the concourse.

A snack bar is on the concourse, running east and west, and between this and the locker room the large counter where bowlers can obtain shoes, bowling pads, etc.

Saturday morning more than 75 junior bowlers started their play under the supervision of Miss Carolyn Koester and her coaches. Many of these junior bowlers received early instructions last Wednesday and Thursday from Mrs. Zella Hardin, of the American Junior Bowling Congress and who is a state certified instructor. Mrs. Hardin is well known in Sedalia, having given instructions to juniors before and several times in the past few years.

Hillcrest at present has the American Junior Bowling Congress, which operates a national program. The AJBC code is offered as a guide to bowling proprietors, certified instructors, coaches and others interested in junior bowling to assure a program of wholesome environment, protected athletic eligibility, healthful recreation and fun for youth.

The code is as follows: (1) No alcoholic beverages shall be served or consumed in the area where members of the American Junior Bowling Congress are engaged in who have shown the grown-ups how to do it.

The local drivers have now been joined in their weekly races by cart owners from other towns, the same as the Sedalians drive to their tracks to race.

The Warren brothers invite those people who like thrills, speed and excitement, to drive out and visit their suburban park and watch the youngsters go.

American Junior Bowling Congress functions. (2) AJB members shall observe the eligibility rules of their home State High School Athletic Association or Activities Association pertaining to bowling (3) AJBC members shall refrain from smoking during the time any AJBC function, in which they are participating, is in progress. (4) AJBC members shall not play pinball machines while any AJBC function or school bowling activity is in progress.

The AJBC is divided into three groups: Bantams are all boys and girls 12 years of age and under who will not have reached their 13th birthday before March 1, 1962; Juniors are all boys and girls 13 to 15 years of age and who have not reached their 16th birthday by March 1, 1962; Seniors are all boys and girls who are 16 and 18 years of age and who have not reached their 19th birthday before March 1, 1962. This division by age level does not apply to local league organization, as these age levels may bowl in the same league.

Hillcrest is owned by Kenneth Buchholtz and Don Anderson and they have as their manager, Jack Vaughan, well known Sedalia bowler.

McBride Chalks 12th Win; L.A. Whips A's 6-3

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Rookie Ken McBride scored his 12th victory with a six-hitter Saturday as the Los Angeles Angels defeated the Kansas City A's 6-3.

Another rookie, Ken Hunt, drove in two of the Angel runs, one with his 21st homer, the other with a sacrifice fly.

The Athletics got two runs in the fourth, when Angel third baseman George Thomas made two throwing errors. Kansas City didn't get an earned run until the eighth, when Yarnie Causey lined a homer over the right field fence.

The Angels got a run back in the fifth on Hunt's homer and took a 3-2 lead in the sixth. Tom Satriano's second double of the game brought in the fourth and deciding Los Angeles run in the seventh.

Bomb Destroys DA's Plane; No One Hurt

WIGGINS, Miss. (AP)—A bomb ripped to pieces the private plane of a Mississippi district attorney Saturday while it was parked in a hangar. No one was hurt.

The explosives could have been planted "by any one of a number of persons who want to kill me," commented Dist. Atty. Boyce Holleman. "There is no question that the explosives were planted in the plane," he added.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Eldon Lader said the blast was centered just back of the cockpit.

Residents of the area told investigators they heard a loud blast about 2 a.m. during thunder and lightning, but no check was made until daylight.

There is one doctor for every 770 people in the United States.

Tigers Scrimmage, Work on Specialties And Pass Defense

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—The University of Missouri football squad had its first scrimmage Saturday and then turned to work on specialties and pass defense.

Coach Dan Devine said the squad was generally in good condition, though Gerald Stevenson, sophomore right halfback candidate, didn't do any rough work and Daryl Krugman, another right halfback with an ailing knee, had the day off.

Saturday's work was mostly on offense, with the first, second and third units carrying the ball against teams four and five, but Devine said the emphasis Monday would be on defense.

4-H Round-Up with

OWEN FOX

Pettis County Assoc. Agent

Dates Ahead

Tuesday, Sept. 5—4-H livestock entries for American Royal due in State 4-H Club office.

Tuesday night, Sept. 5—Pettis County 4-H Council, Courthouse Assembly Room, 8 p.m.

Sept. 7-8—District 4-H leaders short course, Camp Bob White, Knob Noster State Park.

Friday, Sept. 8—Standard report forms and award applications due in county extension office.

Friday, Sept. 8—Special 4-H club fat steer sale at the Kansas City livestock market.

What Is 4-H?

Four-H is a voluntary educational organization designed to meet the needs and interests of boys and girls, ten to twenty years of age. Main units of the organization are local community clubs, under the guidance of volunteer adult leaders.

Four-H is a part of the cooperative extension service program. Taking part in the program are the United States Department of Agriculture, the State Land Grant Colleges and the counties.

With 44 countries supporting the movement, 4-H is now the largest voluntary youth organization in the world. In the United States alone, over two million boys and girls are members. In Missouri, 37,434 belong to 4-H.

Purpose of 4-H

The purpose of 4-H is to provide boys and girls with opportunities to develop into good, useful and productive citizens.

Four-H helps boys and girls fulfill their basic developmental needs through their own voluntary efforts. It supplements training in the home, school and church. It gives them opportunities to belong, to possess and to achieve.

Opportunities for Self Development

More specifically, 4-H work enables young people to: Acquire knowledge and skills; develop attitudes and ability to cooperate with others; develop leadership abilities; appreciate the value and dignity of work; develop pleasant personalities and good sportsmanship; develop desirable ideals and standards for farming and homemaking and a sense of responsibility for attaining them.

Acquire a clear vision of agriculture as a basic industry and homemaking as a worthy occupation; develop an appreciation of the values of research and a scientific attitude toward the problem of making a living; be of service to others; and learn to accept and discharge responsibility.

The Ten Guideposts of 4-H

These guideposts help 4-H members analyze their own situations, needs and interests in:

Developing talents for greater usefulness; joining with friends for work, fun and fellowship; learning to live in a changing world; choosing a way to earn a living; producing food and fiber for home and market; creating better homes for better living; conserving nature's resources for security and happiness; building health for a strong America; sharing responsibilities for community improvement; and serving as citizens in maintaining world peace.

Using the guideposts, 4-Hers can build programs that help them make physical, mental, social and spiritual preparations for citizenship.

The 4-H Pledge

I pledge:
My HEAD to clearer thinking.
My HEART to greater loyalty.
My HANDS to larger service, and

My HEALTH to better living.
For my Club, my Community, and my Country.

The 4-H Pledge expresses members' willingness to give their best mental, spiritual, social and physical efforts to become good citizens.

What Do Members Do?

In group action each member takes part in a club that elects its own officers and plans and executes a purposeful program. Under the guidance of adult leaders and extension agents, members plan and carry out their own meetings and club activities. Monthly meetings include business, singing, educational feature and recreation.

Through these group efforts, 4-Hers: Learn to operate democratically. Learn to cooperate with others in work and play. Develop ability to think and talk on their feet. Get satisfaction from community service.

In individual action each 4-Her is required to enroll in at least one project. In Missouri, there are 77 to choose from in crops, livestock, dairy, woodwork, foods, home management, clothing and other phases.

Records are kept on each project. Project circulars and record blanks are provided by the University of Missouri Agricultural Extension Service.

Through individual work in projects, members learn: Scientific methods of farming and homemaking; how to keep business-like records; to accept and discharge responsibility; pride in ownership; and good sportsmanship.

'What Young People Think'

Mom Understands Teen-agers Best

By Eugene Gilbert
President, Gilbert Youth
Research Inc.

There is a widespread belief among adults that if you teen-agers get into trouble, little or big, all of you will eventually withdraw behind this never-varying excuse:

"You just don't understand us."

Are teen-agers our misunderstood generation?

We wondered. To find out, we asked 873 teen-agers whether they feel misunderstood.

We found out that not as many of you feel this way as most adults would believe, but enough of you have this feeling that it is easy to understand the adult attitude. In fact, the misunderstood youngster seems to be in the distinct minority.

We also learned that the majority of you have the good sense to try to rectify misunderstandings with adults through discussion, and that a large portion of you accept the blame for misunderstandings.

Fathers Less Understanding

Roughly one in every five teen-agers feel that either Mother, Dad or their teacher doesn't understand them. Mom apparently is the most understanding, Dad next, and Teacher the least of the three.

Of the 873 teen-agers, 17.4 per cent said their mother does not understand them (22.8 per cent of the boys, but only 12.7 per cent of the girls).

In some cases, the youngsters say this lack of understanding is a general thing: "She refuses to accept the fact that I am no longer a child," says a 17-year-old Brooklyn girl.

And in others, it concerns specific things: "She doesn't understand why I stay out late at night, why I spend too much money, why I like cars," says a 16-year-old Kansas City boy.

Almost 22 per cent (20.9 per cent of the boys and 22.8 per cent of the girls) say their fathers do not understand them.

"He expects too much of me," is the complaint of an 18-year-old girl from Edmonds, Wash. "I can't go to him with my troubles. He never sees my side of things."

This is a common complaint—a father looking for perfection in a child who doesn't feel equipped to attain it.

Others say their fathers are old fashioned, or impatient. And there is one Kansas City 17-year-old boy who says his father "doesn't entirely understand why I want to be a minister of Christ."

Teachers lack understanding, say 19.2 per cent of the youngsters while 66.7 per cent say they do understand and 14.1 per cent simply don't know.

In case after case, the youngsters explain—as did 17-year-old Mary Poritz of Philadelphia: "It isn't so much that teachers fail to understand, but rather that they haven't the time to understand me and the other hundreds of students they meet with daily."

And that, after all, is a pretty understanding answer.

Many Boys Admit Fault

A total of 27.7 per cent of the youngsters (39.7 per cent of the boys and 17.2 per cent of the girls), say they are the most at fault when a serious misunderstanding does occur. Some 10.9 per cent say both sides are generally at fault, and 7.9 per cent say it depends on the circumstances. Only about 10 per cent blame their serious misunderstandings on other people, while 43.3 per cent don't know who to blame.

Kathryn Purdy, 17, of Canandaigua, N. Y., one of those who takes the blame for the misunderstandings, has a solution for them. "A teen-ager in time will become more mature and most of the misunderstandings will be solved," she says.

Understanding Needed

David Schwartz, 17, of Philadelphia, says that an open discussion is the way to cure misunderstandings with parents. And Dan Oran, 17, also of Philadelphia, says the way to solve teacher-pupil differences is to "abandon the idea that a cordial teacher-student relationship is 'apple polishing.'"

Over half of the youngsters—63.9 per cent—say they try to solve their misunderstandings with grownups through discussion.

Neil Sedaka

Sedaka Uses Piano to Win Popularity

By BOB CUNIFF
Gilbert Youth Researcher

A certified symptom of teen-ageritis is that rejected feeling, that heavy burden of being unloved. Yet Neil Sedaka credits his own unloved early years with bringing out a new personality, the one that has made him an authenticated teen-age deity.

As a frustrated, introverted Brooklyn lad, Neil's sole outlet was his piano. With nothing else to distract him, his brooding romance with the piano became an everyday affair and Neil became proficient enough to eventually win a scholarship to the prestigious Juilliard School of Music.

But of course, that wasn't enough. "At school I was definitely not in contention for any popularity awards," says Neil. "I was shy, and that was bad enough. But I didn't seem to be able to do anything accomplished. Athletics were not my strong suit."

They didn't laugh when Neil sat down at the piano. They just ignored him.

"I wasn't exactly in despair," says Neil. "But it struck me that I might have more friends if I wrote some songs. Writing songs came easy."

And of course, that's what changed Neil's life. He hasn't abandoned serious music, but he now is a dedicated song-writer, composer of such imperishable ones as "I Go Ape." He played jazz piano in the school assembly hall, the kids started gathering around and he eventually was getting invited to parties, provided he'd play the piano.

Now Neil tours the world, writes songs by the dozen, is mobbed everywhere and is no longer concerned about popularity.

"The problem now is finding time for myself," says Neil. "I need the time to think and of course to compose. As I get older, I find that my ambitions have changed. Now I'd like nothing better than to write the songs for a Broadway show. But I don't want to abandon my essential audience. Teen-agers were the people who discovered me, and I hope my audience will grow up with me."

was no evidence of "freezer burn" of the flesh.

Since results of the test conducted in Sedalia were satisfactory, more extensive tests will be made in the fall at the University of Missouri. And it may be that a carbon dioxide freezing process will someday replace the conventional blower-type freezing, thereby shortening the time required to freeze turkeys and chickens.

Back to Classrooms For Pool Lifeguards

Busy Season Closing Out Labor Day

Summer 'Picnic' Is Over For Five And All Are Glad

By LARRY EMBRY

SO YOU think you'd like to be a lifeguard? We thought so too. It looks all right. Plenty of fun in the sun, lots of bathing beauties to admire your muscles and that glorious tan you've acquired and not much real effort to put out.

But a few minutes with five lifeguards, who this week close out a busy season at Liberty Park pool, soon changed this reverie.

Labor Day will be the last day the park pool is open and five young men who served as lifeguards will head back to school and college. The season, which opened Memorial Day, has been an average one—sometimes busy, especially during the late July and early August heat wave, and sometimes lonesome during the cold snap period.

The five guards will soon trade their white swimming trunks for ivy league wardrobes and their time in the sun for studying.

Larry Blaylock, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Blaylock, 1636 West Fifth, will head for the Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy at Rolla where he will be a sophomore.

Spencer Fricke, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fricke, 239 South Park, will enroll at the University of Missouri as a freshman.

Larry Ashbrook, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Ashbrook, 1322 East 14th, is the youngest of the five guards and will return to Smith-Cotton High School as a senior.

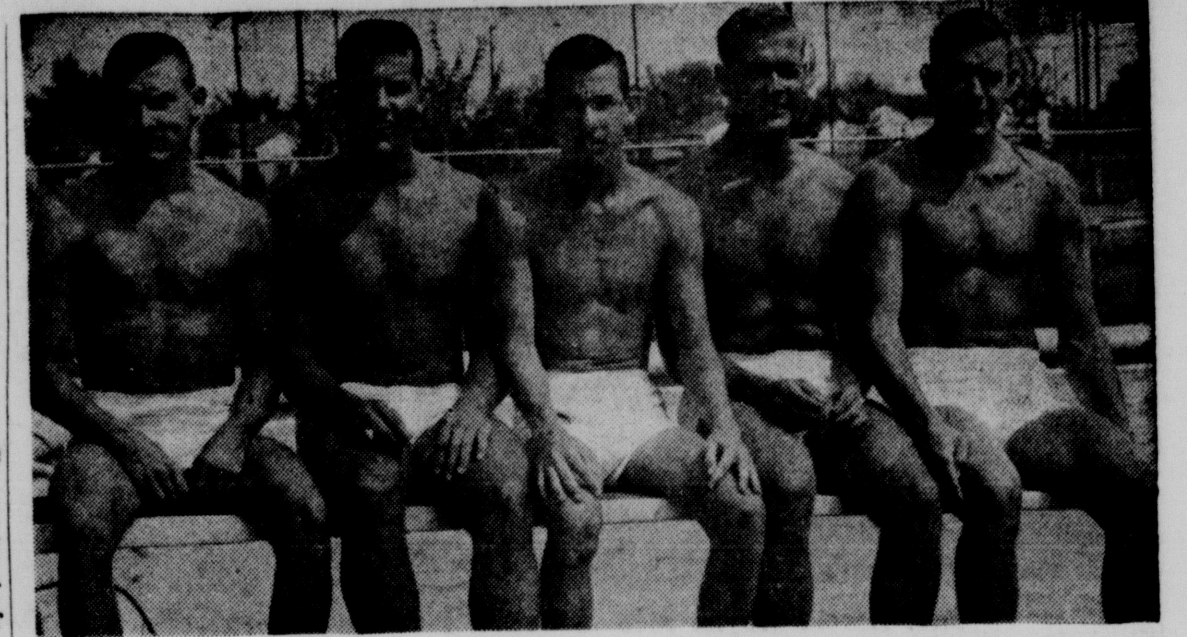

Danny Ruffin, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Ruffin, 514 East 13th, will be a senior at the University of Missouri.

Paul Bahner, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bahner, 239 South Stewart, is enrolled as a freshman at Central Missouri State College following a hitch in the service.

The five all like their summer job, but readily point out its rigorous requirements and add its not the picnic it appears to be.

Larry Blaylock, Danny Ruffin and Paul Bahner are veterans at the game with several years experience, while Larry Ashbrook is ending his first season and Spencer Fricke has served as a guard for only a few weeks. Spencer took over late in the season when another guard, John Walsh, left.

What are the requirements for

BACK TO SCHOOL—Summer and the swimming season are nearly over and the five lifeguards at Liberty Park pool will be out of a job until next summer. From the left the guards are: Larry Blaylock, Spencer Fricke, Larry Ashbrook, Danny Ruffin and Paul Bahner. Four of the five are college bound, while Larry Ashbrook, youngest of the set, is a Smith-Cotton senior.

a good lifeguard?

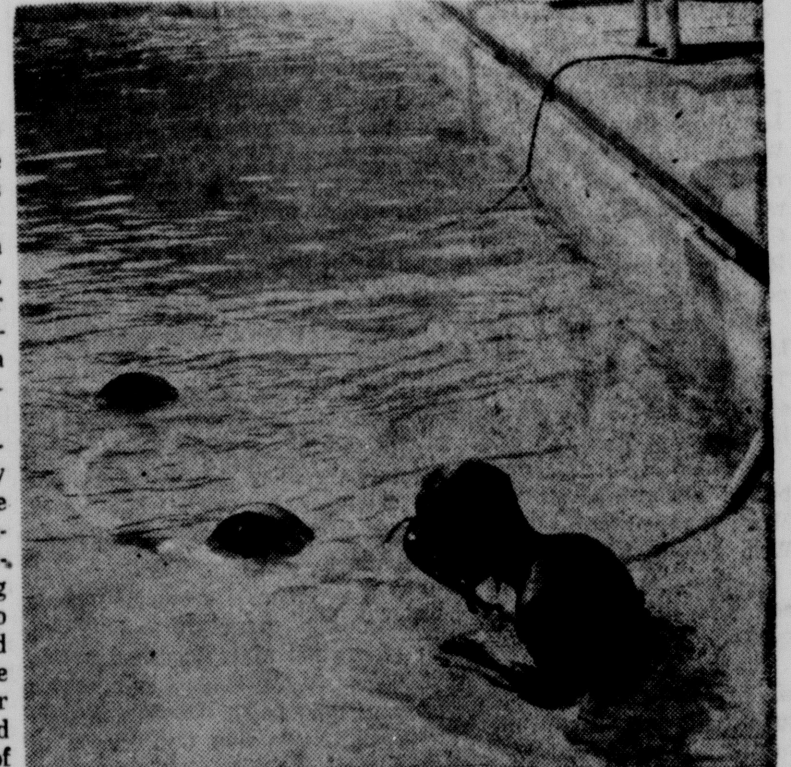

"You've got to be a good swimmer," laughs Larry Ashbrook. Sounds elementary, but it's not.

To become a lifeguard each one passed a rigorous two-week course set up by the American Red Cross in life saving and water safety. This course, administered by a qualified Red Cross instructor, touches on all aspects of water safety—from taking care of yourself in the water to rescuing a drowning victim and applying artificial respiration.

The Red Cross lifesaving manual, which every guard practically learns by memory during the course, sets forth these preliminary swimming requirements before one should consider becoming a lifeguard: He should be able to make a shallow dive in good form, swim a quarter of a mile (440 yards) without resting or keep afloat by treading water and swimming in place for a period of 10 minutes. His category of strokes should contain as a minimum, a good side stroke, one of the hand-over-hand strokes (crawl, trudgen or trudgen-crawl), and a fair semblance of a breast stroke.

He should be able to swim with ease on the back using the legs alone for a distance of 20 yards or more. He should, of course, be capable of making a surface dive and of swimming a short distance under water. All this should be within his ability before starting life saving training!

The course itself does more than prepare a good guard for duty at a pool or beach—it encompasses all phases of water safety. And subjects broached include personal safety in swimming, a study of safe and unsafe swimming places, personal safety and self-rescue in the use of small crafts and boats, different types of drowning and the best forms of rescue, swimming rescue of a victim too far from shore to be thrown a line or reached otherwise, recovering a submerged drowning victim, resuscitation or reviving a victim, and several special forms of rescue from ice accidents and their prevention.

The lifeguards balk when queried about rescue efforts at the pool. Luckily, this season there has been only one serious mishap, a 10-year-old girl was pulled from the nine-foot end of the pool on July 21 and revived in time to save her life.

During the week four of the five guards were on duty at all times. On Saturdays and Sundays all five were there.

Sundays and holidays make the task even more responsible, the guards say. Some 1,500 persons have used the pool on crowded days, they reported. Maintaining order and looking out for the safety of this many persons during the course of a day is no small chore.

When the swimmers go home the lifeguards are not finished, we discovered. Janitorial work then begins for the five. Cleaning the bath houses, the entire pool area and hosing down the pool deck are added tasks.

A special problem this season has been algae growths in the pool. Algae, minute one-celled plants, seem to flourish in the pool when the season is fairly wet as this summer has been.

When the algae dies it settles on the pool bottom, leaving it slick. The dead algae must be removed from the pool with a long hose and a vacuuming process. This job falls into the hands of a lifeguard equipped with a face mask fed air from a compressor at the pool's side.

Freezing Process Tested Here

BY TONY WALCH

Exploratory testing on the use of carbon dioxide gas as a means of "freeze crusting" of turkeys was conducted recently by the Sedalia Ice and Cold Storage Company, freezers and storers for Swift and Company poultry processing plant in Sedalia.

Jack Cunningham of Sedalia Ice requested the test be made to determine the feasibility of rapid freezing of turkeys and chickens. At present the local plant is using a blower-type freezing process on the birds. While this method has been effective, the new carbon dioxide process, if developed on a commercial basis, would greatly reduce the time required to freeze birds for storage and would insure uniformity of freezing.

Results of the test indicate that desired crust or "bloom" for frozen turkeys can be obtained by using carbon dioxide as the refrigerant, and that "freezer burn" or other damages do not occur. The practicality of this type freezing on a commercial basis has not yet been determined.

Pure Carbonic Company of Kansas City supplied carbon dioxide and equipment, excepting a freezing chamber, for the test. Representing the company were Roger J. B. McKinley and Ross Trausov.

Dr. Walter A. MacLinn, director, The Refrigeration Research Foundation, Colorado Springs, Colo., gave technical assistance in evaluating the freezing process.

Sedalia Ice and Cold Storage Company supplied a freezing chamber approximately 20 x 20 inches square and 36 inches deep, with walls of corrugated fiberboard. About six inches of insulation was on the sides and bottom of the chamber, all encased in plywood.

Carbon dioxide was fed from a portable tank into the chamber through a copper coil. Only one turkey at a time was in the chamber, and the nozzle releasing carbon dioxide was directed about four inches to the side of the bird.

A thermostat placed near the top of the freezing chamber on one wall regulated the carbon dioxide flow. The only thermostat available had a lowest setting of minus-50 degrees Fahrenheit, and for the test was set at this temperature.

An attendant placed a thermocouple on the side of the freezing chamber. This air temperature thermocouple registered a variation of temperature from minus-65 degrees to minus-95 degrees Fahrenheit. With a rack and turkey in the chamber during the freezing process, an air temperature variation of about minus-75 degrees to over minus-100 degrees Fahrenheit was registered.

Next, an attendant placed thermocouples in the body cavity, thigh and breast of the turkey in order to determine the time required to reach a certain degree of freezing.

Accurate time and temperatures were recorded on two turkeys. On one bird the "frozen crust" was about three-fourths of an inch thick after being in the chamber 15 minutes. The crust on another bird, kept in the chamber 40 minutes, was about one and one-half inches thick.

Results were very encouraging. Surface appearance or "bloom" on the birds was considered that desired by the trade, and there

British Fear Mau Mau Terror

By TOM A. CULLEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

LONDON (NEA)—Jomo Kenyatta's release from custody in his native Kenya shocked even those Britishers who tolerantly hold with yesterday's imprisoned African leaders becoming today's prime ministers.

Kenyatta was the man found guilty nine years ago of managing the Mau Mau terror that resulted in some 2,000 murders and countless mutilations in the British colony. The blood-letting still is fresh in the minds of Britishers here. So it will take some time for them to get used to the alleged leader of that conspiracy walking freely among his people once again.

Because of public reaction, Kenyatta was held in protective custody for several years after serving five years of a seven-year term. His time in prison was reduced because of his good conduct.

But, as recently as 1960, the governor of Kenya described him as "the African leader of darkness and death."

But now the British government not only has released Kenyatta, but it also has built him a brand-new house with wide verandas and walls tinted bluish pink and powder blue.

In front of this house are two high-powered Mercedes Benz motorcars, the gifts of rival political factions seeking to curry Kenyatta's favor. Inside, the rooms are crammed with other gifts from Kenyatta admirers.

And this is only the beginning in the "rehabilitation" of Jomo Kenyatta, now in his late 60s. This man, who calls himself "Flaming Spear," at the moment is barred from the Kenya legislative council by a law which makes ex-convicts ineligible for election. But this restriction can and will be speedily lifted.

KENYATTA: Symbol of Mau Mau to the British and independence to Kenya Africans.

Kenyatta is expected to become first leading minister, then premier when Kenya gets internal self-government in a few months' time, and finally prime minister on independence day (probably late in 1962).

He thus will join the ranks of such other "jailbirds" who made good as India's Nehru, Ghana's Nkrumah and Archbishop Makarios of Cyprus.

The big question here is: can Jomo Kenyatta be trusted? Has he learned his lesson, or is his liberation likely to be followed by the re-birth of the Mau Mau?

In releasing Kenyatta, the British had very little choice in the matter. Even behind bars, he never ceased to be leader of the Kikuyu tribesmen and of Kenyan Africans in general. The British found that Kenyatta actually was more dangerous as a prisoner than he would be free. While he was in prison, he exercised power without responsibility.

So "Flaming Spear" walks again, to pose in tribal dress with the symbolic spear in his hand when necessary. But he personally prefers Western dress. For dramatic effect, he carries an elephant-headed stick and wears an enormous Gentian ring on his right index finger.

Orphaned early in life, Kenyatta was brought up by Scottish missionaries; he worked as a kitchen boy, carpenter, inspector for the Nairobi waterworks. But his oratorical ability led him to an active political role in the Kikuyu Central Assn. in 1928; he also published a Kikuyu-language newspaper in Nairobi.

Coming to Britain for a short visit in 1929, he remained here for 17 years. He studied anthropology at the University of London, married an English girl; they had one child.

With Kwame Nkrumah (now president of Ghana) he organized a left wing Pan-Africa Congress in Manchester in 1945. He also made several trips to Moscow, his expenses being paid by the Soviet government.

When Kenyatta returned to Nairobi in 1946, he won immediate recognition as leader of all Africans in Kenya in their fight for independence.

Kenyatta always has denied his role as the brains of the Mau Mau, insisting that he urged his followers to give up terrorism. But the British claim he double-crossed them. While ostensibly speaking against Mau Mau, Kenyatta gave secret signs that his views were the opposite, the British say.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Donna Koehner, Harold Rice

Before an altar adorned with pink and white mums Miss Donna Lee Koehner and Mr. Harold Wayne Rice were united in marriage at eleven o'clock Saturday morning, Sept. 2, at St. Andrew's Catholic Church in Tipton. The Rt. Rev. Brier officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Koehner, Tipton, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Rice, Hartsburg.

Traditional wedding music was played during the ceremony by Mrs. Oscar Smith. Mr. David Wolf, the featured soloist, sang "On This Day O' Beautiful Mother" while the bride placed a bouquet on the Blessed Virgin's altar.

The bride wore a lovely gown of imported Chantilly lace and tulle, with over skirts of tulle, ruffled net and delustered taffeta. The all lace fitted basque bodice had a scalloped portrait neckline that was outlined with embroidery of tiny seed pearls and iridescent sequins. The gown had long tapered sleeves coming to a point over the wrists. The very full bouffant skirt was floor length and was fashioned in front with a peplum effect of scalloped lace, with a center panel of tulle, that was further enhanced with applique of lace roses sparked with sequin and pearl trim. The back of the gown had deep ruffled tiers of lace and tulle.

A regal queen's crown of looped pearls, adorned with three dew drop pearls, secured the elbow length circular veil of French illusion. Her only jewelry was a single pearl necklace with matching earrings, a gift from the groom. She carried out the traditional "something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue," and a six pence in her shoe.

Miss Ruth Sue Koehner, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore a powder blue dress of sheer nylon jersey fashioned with a softly draped scooped neckline and tiny cap sleeves. The dress featured a very full bouffant skirt over taffeta. She wore a matching blue hat of double bows with a chenille dotted mesh veil.

The bridesmaid, Miss Peggy Lou Koehner, also sister of the bride, wore a pink dress and matching hat identical to that worn by the maid of honor. Both attendants carried a bouquet of white carnations with powder blue satin streamers for the maid of honor and pink streamers for the bridesmaid.

Miss Karalyn King Becomes Bride Of Mr. W. Alfred Gates

At half past seven o'clock in the evening Saturday, Aug. 26, Miss Karalyn King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oran King, Superior, Neb., became the bride of Mr. W. Alfred Gates, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Gates, California, at the First Methodist Church in Superior, Neb.

Baskets of white gladioli and mums and greenery in front of the lighted candelabras formed the setting for the candlelight double-ring ceremony. The pews were decorated with white satin bows centered with yellow pom-pom mums, lilies of the valley and fern.

The organist, Mr. Kenyon Latham, California, played a program of nuptial organ music, traditional wedding marches and accompanied the soloist, who sang "Thine Alone" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The candles were lighted by three former classmates of the bride. They wore identical sheath dresses of beige peau do soi.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white peau do soi featuring a bateau neckline applied with a wide banding of Rose Pointe lace. Attached to the defined sheath skirt was a gathered bouffant overskirt which repeated the lace banding vertically and continued to form a whisper train at the back. A Georgetown pillbox of filigree-pearl caught her veil. Her only jewelry was a diamond pendant necklace, a gift from the groom. Her bouquet was a white orchid surrounded by yellow roses with stephanotis and ivy surrounding the cascade arrangement.

Mrs. Jerald Hurtz, Lincoln, Neb., served as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Sue Warmbrodt, Bunceton, Miss Barbara Bacon, Denver, Colo., Miss Kay Taylor, Salina, Kan., Miss Nancy Long, Gary, Neb., and Miss Betty Darling, Auburn, Neb. They

Miss Marilyn Kueck Exchanges Vows With Kenneth Oehlschlaeger

Miss Marilyn Kueck, daughter of Mrs. Gustave Kueck and the late Mr. Kueck of Concordia, and Mr. Kenneth Oehlschlaeger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Oehlschlaeger, Sweet Springs, were united in marriage at half past five o'clock Saturday evening, Aug. 19, at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Concordia.

The Rev. Walter Dierking, Cole Camp, uncle of the groom, performed the double ring ceremony.

Baskets of white gladioli, white beauty asters and snow-on-the-mountain with salad leaves decorated the altar and were flanked by circular candelabras. The pews were marked with white satin bows centered with flowers and greenery.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Lois Heilman, organist, played "Arioso" by Handel and accompanied Mrs. Mark Adams, who sang "The Twenty-Third Psalm" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The tapers were lighted by Miss Marlene Mieser, Concordia, and Mrs. Bill Breedlove, Kansas City. They wore wrist corsages of yellow carnations and were gownned like the matron of honor and bridesmaid.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. C. R. Deininger, Sedalia, wore a gown of Chantilly lace fashioned with a Sabrina neckline embellished with iridescent sequins and tiny seed pearls. The long tapered sleeves were set in a molded bodice. The very bouffant skirt, which was worn over layers of crinolines featured alternate tiers of pleated tulle and lace in the front. The back was all lace with a deep lace flounce at the bottom which fell into a full sweep train. Her illusion veil was held in place by a crown of pearl flowerettes. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift from the groom.

She carried a white Cattleya orchid with stephanotis and nylon tulle atop a white prayer book.

The matron of honor, Mrs. William K. Fischer, St. Louis, sister of the bride, wore a lavender colored silk organza ballerina length dress with scoop neckline and short sleeves. The bodice had a set-in cummerbund with a designer's rose accent in the front. Her picture hat was of white net. She carried a colonial bouquet of pale yellow carnations and velva leaves with net and streamers.

The bridesmaid, Mrs. C. R. Deininger, Sedalia, sister of the bride, wore a dress identical to that of the matron of honor and also carried a colonial bouquet of pale yellow carnations with net and streamers.

Mr. Donald Oehlschlaeger, Kansas City, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The groomsmen was Mr. Rodney Meyer, Emma. Ushers were Mr. Bill Stuerke, Sweet Springs, and Mr. Garner Wellner, Kansas City.

The flower girls, Miss Joan and Miss Beth Fischer, St. Louis, and Miss Linda Deininger, Sedalia, nieces of the bride, wore white organza frocks with matching headpieces. They carried baskets of white carnations, white pinocchio's and velva leaves.

Master Stanley Kirchhoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kirchhoff, Concordia, served as ringbearer. He carried a heart-shaped satin pillow trimmed with Chantilly lace and satin ribbon.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue eyelet dress with white accessories. The mother of the groom chose a dusty rose lace sheath with white accessories. They both wore corsages of purple cymbidium orchids.

The grandmother of the groom, Mrs. Martin Oehlschlaeger, Concordia, wore a printed summer sheer dress with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

A reception was held at the VFW Hall immediately following the ceremony with a supper being served to approximately 240 guests. Bouquets of garden flowers decorated the tables.

The five-tier wedding cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Dale Elling and Mrs. Florus Elling. Mrs. Donald Oehlschlaeger

Labor's Day Is Freedom's Day

Labor Day is a uniquely American holiday. Other nations may have days to honor labor, but they're not the same. May Day, for example, is a worker's holiday in Communist lands, but it is a holiday in honor of the state, not the worker.

Parades and organized celebrations are the exception in modern America. The holiday has grown into a private affair, a family day for picnics and outings or back-yard loafing, a quiet end to summer.

Does this bespeak softness and selfishness in the American people? The flag should be flown on this day, but how many have you seen on front lawns or porches? Is it just a pause during the mad capitalistic scramble for money and material possessions?

Or, on the other hand, is it the proper way for a free people to honor a system under which they, themselves (not the state), have provided more people with more of the good things of life than ever before in history—not 20 years from now but today?

Crucial months lie ahead. The American people have been called on for unusual peacetime sacrifices. They may be called upon for more, and they will respond again, if need be. Those who conclude that the patio hammock is the only American symbol do so at their peril. Rather, it is an indication that our citizens are facing the danger and sacrifice with a quiet confidence that proceeds from an inner strength.

In purely domestic affairs, other challenges face the country. The paradox of pockets of jobless in the midst of growing employment and business expansion is still an unsolved problem. The phenomenon of automation will continue to cause some dislocation. Creeping inflation remains an economic threat.

Recognizing this, it seems only fitting that Labor Day be observed by the individual taking advantage of a lull in the "honest vigor of his toil" and return with even more resolution to his daily stint.

In the struggle with totalitarianism, with its absolute control over production, consumption and goals, the manner in which America meets its own problems is as important as the number of its troops or missiles. Not everyone can do a uniform to meet the external challenge, but all can contribute in some way to America's strength at home.

That is the importance of Labor Day, U.S.A. It is more than a day to honor working men (both employer and employee) and the benefits which their labors have provided. It is a day to make a renewed determination to show that it is in freedom that the good life finds its home. It cannot be decreed by the state.

Americans, as in the past, have the freedom to prove it or not.

Changing Pace

So quickly now the summer fades away.
This time of year we seem to note the change.
We feel the difference in each passing day
And suddenly our lives we re-arrange;
From warm carefree days now we turn
Like birds who know the time to migrate,
The sun can still be hot enough to burn
And yet, the fall do we anticipate,
It is a time again to settle down
To living now a life that's more routine,
A time to turn our thoughts to many things,
Our mood changes with the changing scene,
We loosely live when summer days are here,
The great outdoors in living seems to hold
So many joys, so many things to do,
That week by week in gaiety unfold,
The summer wanes and once again we stand
Ready to take up jobs we left undone,
We loved the summer and our lazy ways,
Still fall and its activities are fun.

Realistic Idealism

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Are Americans naive? Do we rush after some starry-eyed dream thinking we can convert the world overnight? Are we the kind of people who panic one day and bask in unrestrained overconfidence the next?

The establishment of the Peace Corps is a case in point. Its acceptance by Americans is typical of our enthusiasm. Mr. Khrushchev to the contrary, this is not a senile country.

There's really nothing new about such an effort. Missionaries, educators, medical teams and humanitarian groups have roamed the world for generations and the stories of the selfless sharing of these many people is a bright chapter in civilization's upward struggle.

Once upon a time they were persons who had little more than dedication and zeal; today's workers add through training of their own talents, plus a study of other cultures. Thus dedication is married to intelligence and experience.

But what would happen if the Communists suddenly announced their Peace Corps? Would we have trained our bright young leaders with the thoroughness and dedication which we've come to associate with our Communist rivals? Will the countries that accept our Peace Corps now be bound to accept a Communist Peace Corps? These are the bedeviling questions we confront.

Yet, if this is naive, it's not all bad. It was the fresh youthful vigor of a new nation that enabled this country to become strong and imaginative. It gave hope to the world's millions. The possible was possible now; the impossible tomorrow.

We're a sorry lot if we allow some other political system to steal that ideal from us. If we have tapped this native enthusiasm and dedication by the Peace Corps, maybe we can loose it for the cities of our own country which need to recruit and involve the talent of its best citizens.

There's a kind of sin which an Englishman called "cozy agnosticism." It's the kind of sitting around on the sidelines, doubting the worth of everything and becoming involved in nothing.

If we have to choose between the cynical withdrawal from the affairs of mankind and an ideal-

Administration Handles Labor Problems With Care

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — Neither the United Auto Workers nor the automobile manufacturers appealed for Kennedy administration help in the current new contract negotiations.

This is in the pattern of recent auto wage talks — argue right up to the old contract expiration date, then settle. Aside from the Chrysler strike over the pension system in 1948 there hasn't been an auto strike since 1946.

The general hope in Washington is that this year's contracts can be made without more than a token strike, and also without intervention by the administration.

There were rumors all over the place that Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg would step into the picture when he went to Detroit to make a speech. But he stayed only overnight, didn't go near the auto negotiations and came right back to Washington to become involved, of all things, the Metropolitan Opera strike.

This has raised the question of just what Kennedy administration policy on strikes is going to be. Which situations will it stay out of and in which will it intervene?

In general, the Kennedy administration wants to be active in promoting better labor relations. With a secretary of labor who was formerly CIO and Steelworkers legal counsel, there was some early concern that the administration would be too pro-labor. But the record of the first seven months shows it has not plunged into every strike.

Fact-finding boards have been named to get transportation workers back on the job in strikes by AFL-CIO yardmasters, New York ferry and tug workers, flight engineers' tieup of seven airlines and machinists' union tie-up of one airline.

In the strike of five maritime unions which idled all U. S. shipping, the administration had to ism which seems naive, we'll choose the latter. Best of all, there needs to be that essential blend of mind and heart, brains and feeling, creative idealism and honest realism which has always lifted the values of mankind.

We may seem to be naive and yet we can be realists in our idealism. If we have no illusions, we'll not be disillusioned. It's a chance, and we'd better take it while we can.

fall back on a Taft-Hartley injunction which expires Sept. 20.

In no case has the administration named fact-finding boards where they were not wanted by both sides, as former President Truman did in the 1949 steel strike.

Goldbergs' missile sites labor commission has cracked down on overemployment, make work practices, excessive overtime, wildcat and jurisdictional strikes which affected defense production.

But in numerous local strikes like that of the New York concrete workers, the decision has been made for the federal government to stay out. State and local mediators have settled them. That's the way they want it.

The Metropolitan Opera strike was also local, but it had some national and international angles. The White House began to get protests from radio and TV fans.

And from American tourists abroad, messages began to come in that if little countries like Poland could have opera in seven cities, the United States should have it in one. The President expressed concern and Goldberg offered to arbitrate if he was acceptable to both sides.

One of Kennedy's early acts in this field was to name an advisory commission on labor-management relations. Goldberg is the chairman this year. Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges will chair it in 1962.

The commission has met four times, which is considered a record for such groups, and it will meet again in September. It has a pretty sophisticated attitude. Nobody has proposed repeal of Taft-Hartley or putting all unions under the antitrust laws.

The group has been broken into a number of sub-committees with outside technical experts to take up questions such as automation, full employment, industrial peace, economic growth, wage and price policies.

Reports will be sent to the President this fall. Later, all will be made public. The hope is that they will provide the basis for new labor relations policies and possibly legislative proposals to be submitted to Congress next year.

Russian People Don't Want War

By DREW PEARSON

GAGRI, Georgia, USSR — My conclusions after spending two days with Nikita Khrushchev, some of the time in very serious conversation, some of it in light banter, is that the United States and President Kennedy still have a great opportunity to win a real friend.

That friendship, however, will depend on a compromise regarding West Berlin, because there is no question whatsoever that Nikita Khrushchev, the former coal miner who helped fight the battles of Stalingrad and Kursk, is going ahead with an East German peace treaty.

As he repeated to me many times: "I hope the United States will join us. That will bring great happiness for us."

But regardless of the United States, he is going ahead. He will give guarantees for the safety and independence of West Berlin and he proposes allied token troops in the city, with free access to the city—if the United States cooperates in the treaty.

If this means war, then the United States will have to start that war. Khrushchev will not start it, but he is ready for it. He made this very clear. His plans for the future, his publication of the 20-year plan, his discussion of agriculture, hydroelectric power, irrigation, the development of the "new lands," all indicate that he is thinking about peace. So are the people of Russia. They are busy discussing the 20-year plan, and they don't want a war to disrupt it.

War's Dreadful Toll

Khrushchev told me that he had warned Kennedy at Vienna: "You have never tasted war on your shores. We have. We lost 20,000,000 people in the last war. We don't want another. But we are going to sign the peace treaty with East Germany. We hope you'll sign it with us, but we'll sign it anyway."

Khrushchev didn't put it in so many words, but it was obvious that he was disappointed in his meeting with Kennedy. He had set great hopes for better relations with Kennedy and he was genuinely sorry that his friendship with Eisenhower had broken off, and he referred to Ike in friendly terms many times during our talks.

I became convinced that if Eisenhower's and Khrushchev's friendship had not been disrupted by the U-2 incident a new era of Russian-American understanding might well have developed. Khrushchev said he had hoped to get a new start with Kennedy, and, as previously reported, he purposely delayed releasing the RB-47 fliers during the election campaign in order to help Kennedy after he was elected.

So he was dismayed, he told me, when he and Kennedy came to a deadlock over Berlin and began talking about a military showdown. Khrushchev sometimes gets excited. Perhaps he got excited with Kennedy. Anyway, when Kennedy began talking about equal military strength, Khrushchev told him:

"You have rockets. We have rockets. I think ours are better than yours. But for the sake of the argument, let's assume they are equal. Then we have a war and what happens? We put the world in ashes."

Our Paths Are Parallel

"But why should this be done?" Khrushchev said to me. "I simply can't understand the president."

"Our paths do not cross," he said. "They follow parallel lines."

Khrushchev has a vivid memory of the last war. Most Russians do, but he not only lost his son but was in the thick of two of the bloodiest fronts at Stalingrad and Kursk which broke the back of German resistance and started their retreat to Berlin. That's one reason he is so passionate in his determination to keep a new military Germany from rising again.

"Another Munich," which is what some Western observers call any signing of a treaty with East Germany, means just the opposite to Khrushchev, and for that matter to all of the people of Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia and many in the allied countries.

One reason Khrushchev got along so well with Eisenhower was because he remembered Ike's success in driving back the Nazis and his cooperation with Russian generals near the end of the war when friction developed with Field Marshal Montgomery.

This was why Khrushchev wasn't exaggerating when he said that Eisenhower would have been given the greatest welcome in Soviet history.

I think he was also sincere when he told me: "We want to give the same kind of welcome to Kennedy if we can get the Berlin matter settled."

This is the man Kennedy got off to a wrong start with, but still has to deal with—cold when it comes to calculating the future of his country; yet warmhearted personally; finally a very candid man who will admit his mistakes, who talks frankly about his disputes with Molotov and the old Stalinists, and whom I believe to have been completely frank in telling me what he would or would not do regarding future relations with the United States.

The Hard Core

Who are the unemployed? According to the Department of Labor, as of mid-June, the composite jobless worker was between 25 and 55, and an unskilled or semiskilled worker in durable goods industries.

He was a resident of one of six large industrial states—New York, California, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan and Illinois—and was receiving about $32 a week in unemployment benefits.

At the time of the study, 700,000 unemployed were receiving temporary extended unemployment benefits. They represented a third of the two million workers who had used up their state unemployment benefit rights since mid-1960.

The average worker had received about 22 weeks of benefits and had about 10 more weeks left.

This general picture has not changed significantly since June. While individual workers have joined or left the group, this large army of unemployed remains, seemingly unabsorbable in an otherwise prosperous economy.

Basic Latin Goals

The recent conference of the Organization of American states has come up with some difficult goals, the main one being the determination of the Latin countries to help themselves, by reducing poverty and wiping out illiteracy.

Other goals agreed upon include: tax reform laws; improved agricultural standards; development of a better economy through private enterprise; encouragement of North American businessmen to promote new industry; fair wages to the underpaid workers and finding a solution to the problem created by excessive price fluctuations in the basic exports of Latin American countries.

One of the basic ills below the border is the great class distinction which exists between the very rich and the hopelessly poor. This barrier is the most significant breach that must be closed and it can only be closed by the willingness of the rich and the educated, to raise the living standards and the educational level of the poor. North America is willing to help its southern sisters, but the desire and determination must come from themselves.

Time and Money Factor In De-Salting Ocean Water

By Robert E. Hennessee
DP&R Special Service

WASHINGTON — Hearings are underway in the Senate on President Kennedy's Saline Water Bill, a subject which could rank up with atomic energy as one of the remarkable achievements of the 20th century.

There is no longer any question that we have the technical ability to de-salt water at a rate which is not prohibitive, and in quantities which will alleviate the water shortage which millions of people face daily.

But a little more time is needed along with about $50 million in research and development money.

Work Slated For Levees On Missouri

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eleven units of the Missouri River agriculture levees project are being given active status and work on them will be started when funds are available and local cooperation assured. This word came Thursday from Maj. Gen. William F. Cassidy, director of civil works following a review by Army Engineers.

Cassidy told Rep. William H. Avery, R-Kan., that the information is being furnished to the Senate appropriations subcommittee on public works.

Among those reclassified were the Weston-Iatan, South St. Joseph, L. D. Orrick, Beverly-Larley Leavenworth Bridge, L. D. Ather-ton, Atchison Bridge and Elwood-Glad-den units. The others were designated as L435, L594 and L601.

Cassidy said it was expected that construction on the Elwood-Glad-den and South St. Joseph units could be completed in about three years after planning if funds and necessary rights-of-way are made available.

He said if funds are obtained, construction on the South St. Joseph unit could be started at an early date as some preliminaries were completed before the project was put in a deferred category.

Cassidy said the Elwood-Glad-den unit is in Kansas and Missouri and local people in both states favor construction. He said however that only the Kansas portion has a legally constituted sponsor and construction cannot go ahead until satisfactory assurances are received from both parties.

Plan to Launch Satellite From Ocean Platform

ROME (AP)—The Italian cabinet has approved plans to fire a satellite into orbit around the earth from a floating platform in the Mediterranean within two years.

Italy already has test-fired at least five Italian-made space probe rockets this year to heights of up to 600 miles.

Plans for the first Italian satellite were announced Thursday night after a cabinet session. The announcement indicated that it would be sent aloft with the aid of an American booster rocket. But the government said Italy expects to have its own booster rocket functioning soon after.

Norway Extends Its Fishing Boundaries

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Norway extended its fishery limits 12 miles out to sea today and doubled the number of ships engaged in fishery inspection along its 12,000 miles of rugged coastline. The air force was called in to help.

However, no trouble was expected between the Norwegian forces and foreign trawlers. The old fishing boundary was four miles out. The formula adopted by Norway provides for a 6-mile territorial limit and another 6 miles of restricted fishing waters.

Goodwin's Talk With Guevara Stamped Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., says Richard N. Goodwin has convinced members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee there was nothing improper in his conversation with Cuba's Ernesto Guevara.

"We have absolute confidence the Goodwin - Guevara meeting was exactly as Mr. Goodwin described it in the press," Morse said Thursday after Goodwin, President Kennedy's special assistant for Latin American affairs, had a 90-minute closed-door session with committee members. Adolfo Mugica, former foreign minister of Argentina, has said Guevara, Cuba's economic chief, and Goodwin talked for three hours at Montevideo, Uruguay, Aug. 16 about improving U.S.-Cuban relations. Mugica later resigned.

Goodwin had told newsmen that he and Guevara did not confer on official matters of any nature, and that the meeting was an accidental one at a cocktail party.

News of Interest To Mid-Missourians

CALIFORNIA — Nineteen members and four guests of the Twin City Garden Club met Monday for a covered dish luncheon at the California Country Club.

Mrs. E. M. Bishop, program chairman, introduced Mrs. A. B. Cowley, who gave a talk on "Flowers That Can Take It." Flowers were shown which bloom all summer. She also had some unusual plants, one of which had been sent to her from Germany.

Mrs. Floyd Oesterly, president, was in charge of the business meeting. It was announced the club received a red ribbon for an exhibit at the Prairie Home Fair and Tipton Fair.

A nominating committee was appointed to make a slate of officers for 1962. Also the membership committee was asked to contact anyone who would like to become a member and prospective members are asked to contact Mrs. E. A. Kibbe, membership chairman.

Mrs. Elvin R. Lehman has placed a plant in the Wood Place Library for this month.
